Homer Pegram Devotes 12 Years To Coaching Heights

Functioning as a well-coordinated team, the Arlington Heights' student body reflects its superior coaching. This Jacket team of 1649 players and its 74 "trainers" is not a happy coincidence but is the product of careful planning and concentrated effort.

One man working in the background does a tremendous task in coordinating the team. For twelve years he has coached Heights . . . as "B" football coach for five years, marking up 90% wins; as vice-principal for three years; and now in his fourth year as "head coach."

For his loyalty and devotion we, the student body of Heights, dedicate the 1960 Yellow Jacket to our principal, Mr. Homer J. Pegram.

IN MEMORIAM

"We live in deeds, not years; in thoughts, not breaths . . ." Philip James Bailey

We pay tribute to the living memory of our friend and classmate, James "Sparky" Holmes, who in his 17 years, attained more than many people do in sixty.

An accomplished athlete, James was the city's leading passer in football. This "A" Clubber was active in basketball and baseball, also. Contributing in other areas of school life, he served as a Student Council representative and earned a "J" Club pin this year, attesting his leadership, scholarship and service.

James died March 20, 1960. It is only fitting that "Sparky" be with his class, the juniors, to whom he meant many things: close friend, good sport, teammate, classmate, a contributor to AHHS.

To God we owe the privilege of having known . . . James "Sparky" Holmes.

Experiences Make Life On "The Hill"

Lasting Memory Of "Good Old Days"

Class of '60 has seen Heights' enrollment mushroom from 1,323 in '57 to 1,649 in '60. These six annexes and two floors on the west wing were added during their stay at Heights.

Cramped quarters resulted when the 586 juniors and 563 sophomores registered.

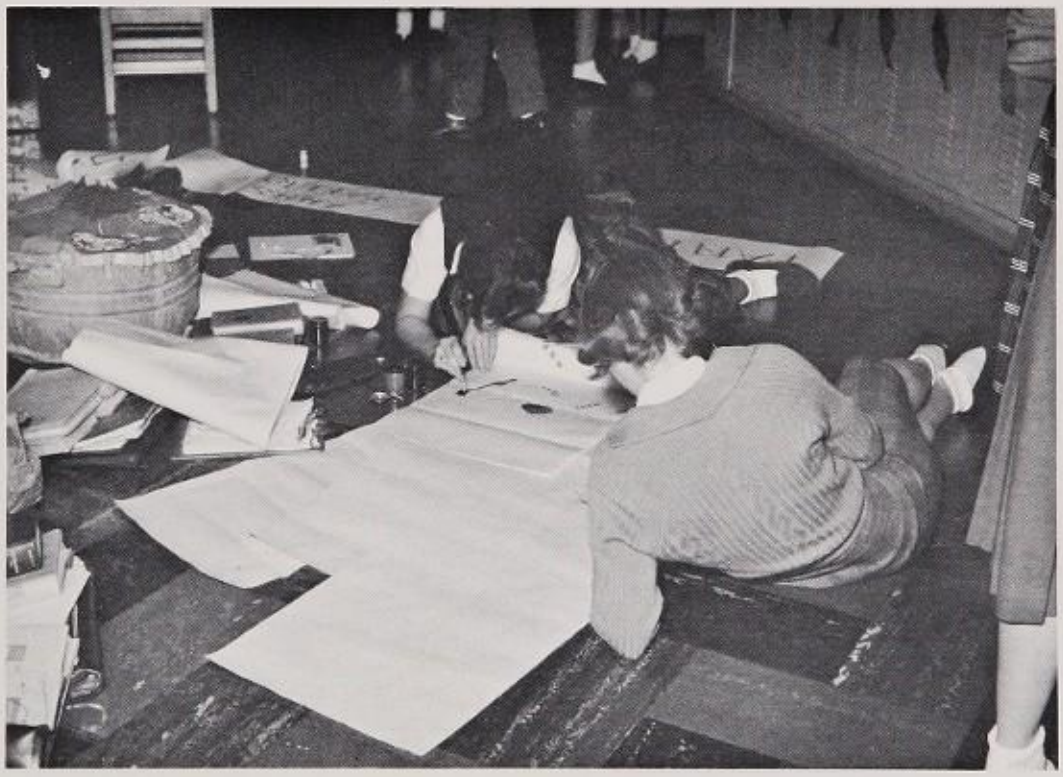
Caught in the 3:40 confusion, a somewhat bushed Chigger King and classmates head home.

Notice these males' reactions to Jeanice Hughes' question. That's surprised Ludiker, dubious Greenman and laughing Ruggieri. All she wanted was to be on the football team.

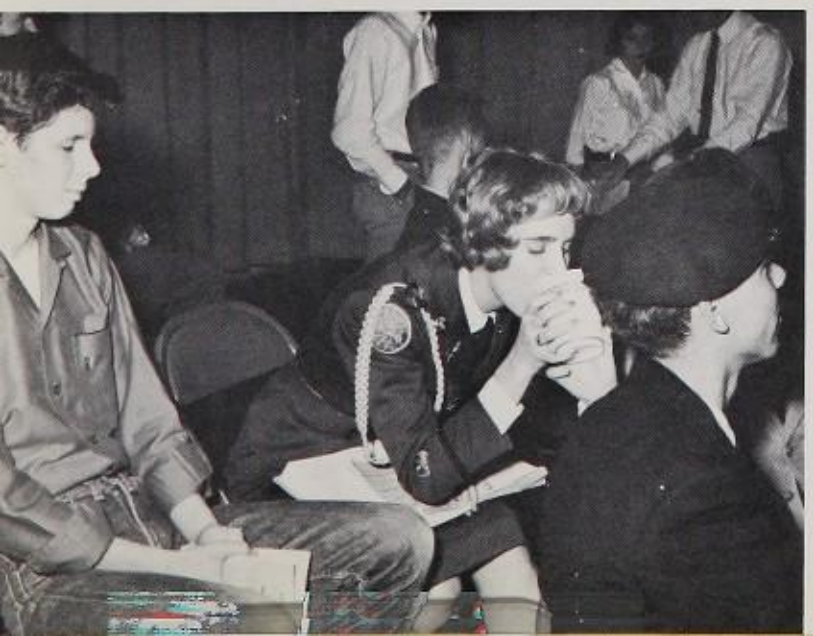
"Gee, that rubber band is wound up tight!" scrutinizes Sam Hudson, winner of an $8,000 Ford scholarship.

"I'm an angel," beams Bill Melvin. "Ha!" counters Joe McLean.

Seniors Malinda Rhodes and Carol Rollow have made quite a mess in their haste to complete their Homecoming decorations.



"Ah . . . nectar of the gods!" gurgles Mona Lynn McDaniel. Jon Pieratt and bereted John Gaston know it's just lemonade.



Singed hair, smoke-filled eyes and mangled toes spell a snake dance around the bonfire.

"Oh, c'mon, Santa, it's my turn," gripes Ruth Whiteside as Darlene White interviews this department store Santa for Jacket Journal.

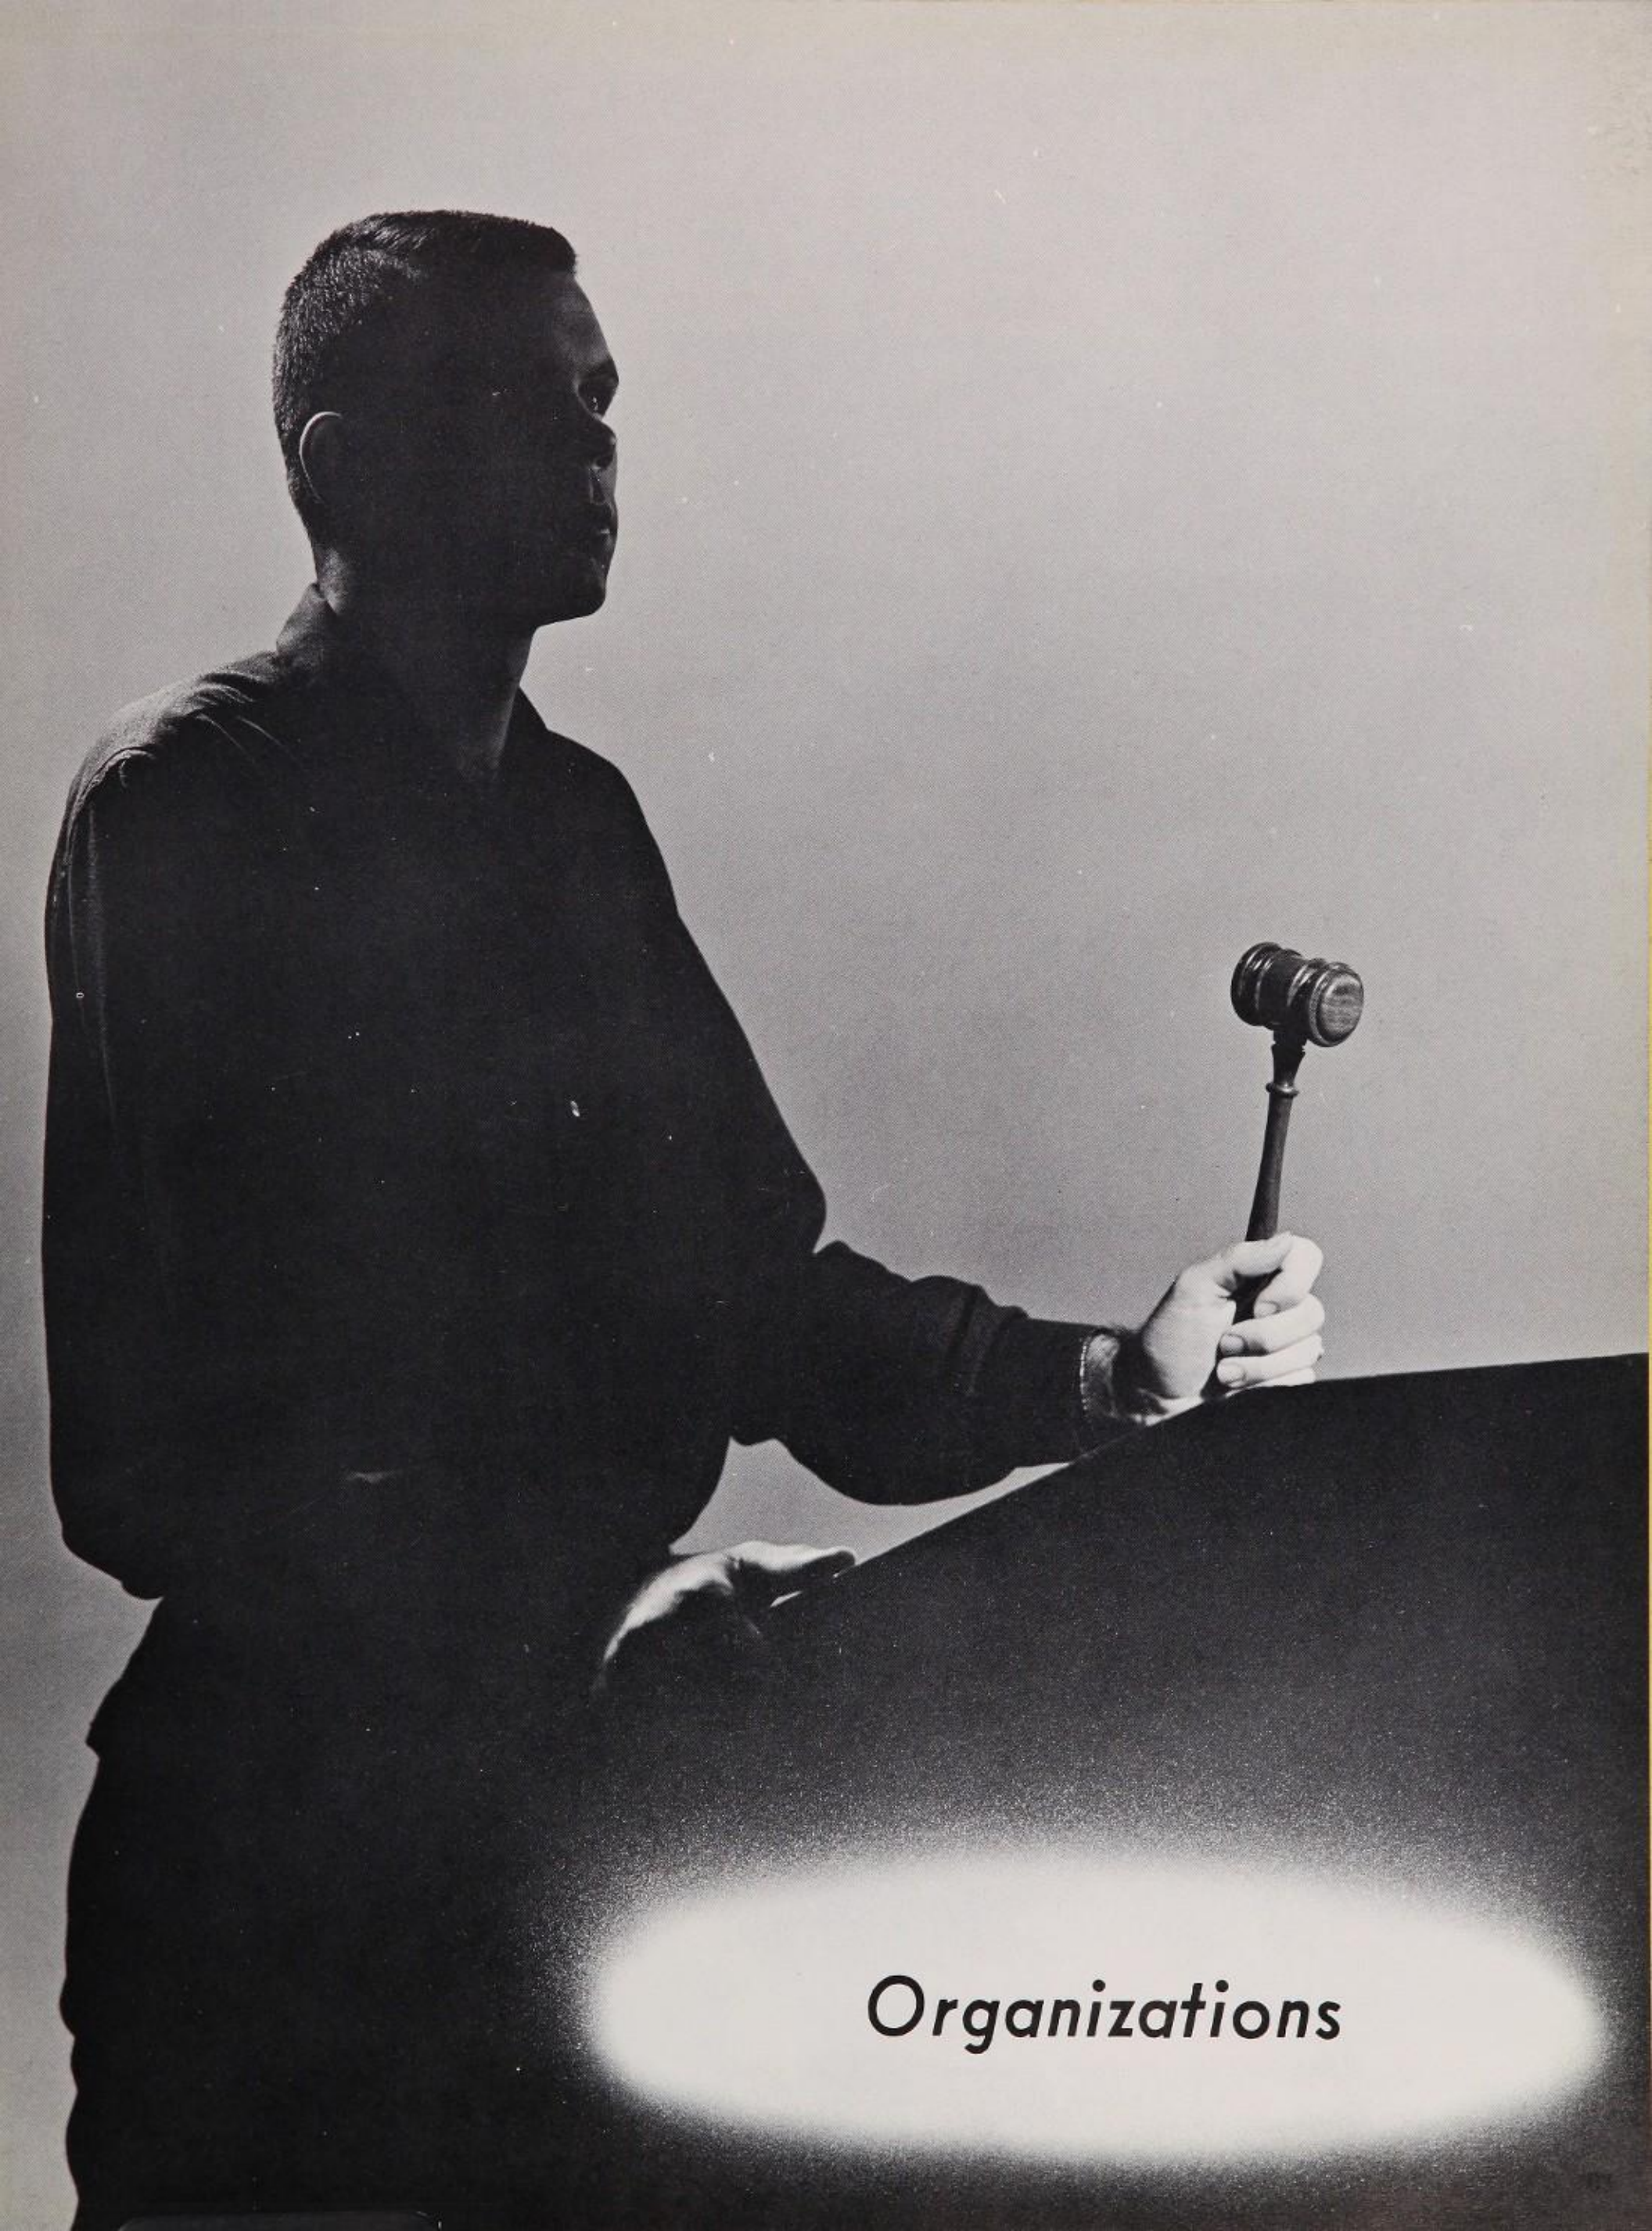
Chemistry Experiment #35: Wash windows. Actually, Cliff Gunter just talked too much in chemistry and is paying for it.

Miss Hale's second period Spanish class wished her a "Feliz cumpleanos."

Mr. Van Meter helps Mike Myers solve a problem in the research lab.

Chivalry is dead, and the auditorium is packed, so who has to stand, Marty Meihaus and Cathy Collier?

"Hey, how 'bout that Clip Clap!" beams James Morrow, one of many impressed sophomores.



Organizations

New Sponsors Guide Council

"I move that a Leap Year Dance be held on February 26 . . ." From suggestions and brainstorms such as this come many enjoyable activities which wouldn't be possible without the Student Council.

Besides compiling that invaluable guide, the Student Handbook, the council of 102 students arranged Homecoming activities, decorated the Christmas tree with blue and gold balls, organized a Leap Year Dance (another first at Heights), backed the school by selling football ribbons, decals and book covers and supervised elections.

Under the guidance of new sponsors, Mrs. Leota Nation and Mr. Nick Ruggieri, the Student Council continues to uphold the standards of AHHS.

A hearty handshake and the president's gavel are given to Joel Locke by Mr. Roy Stone, former Heights' principal.

Officers and sponsors confer. Jan Haley, vice-president; Mrs. Leota Nation, sponsor; Don Halpenny, treasurer; Mr. Nick Ruggieri, sponsor; Joel Locke, president; Mary Jane Ware, secretary.

Lee Schneider has just suggested a student-council sponsored 20 hour week at Heights.

Program Committee: Lynda Lovell, chairman; Beverly Browning, Ronnie Luedtke.

Election Committee: Saundra Boone, chairman; Lee Schneider, Jeff Jarvis, Pam Ray and John Paul Wood.

Promotion Committee: Don Halpenny, chairman; Lilla Keyes, Roxee Calinson, Rena Clark and Peggy Thornton.

Decoration Committee: Melinda Selby, Larry Sykes, Charlotte Green, chairman; Julia Proudfit, Laurie Bozeman and Diann Merrick.

Students Strive Toward Goals Of 'J' Club . . .

Service . . .

Mr. Homer J. Pegram awards a diamond-set "J" pin to Miss Kathryn Haden. The pin was presented by the faculty in recognition of Miss Haden's eleven years of service to the "J" Club.

Leadership . . .

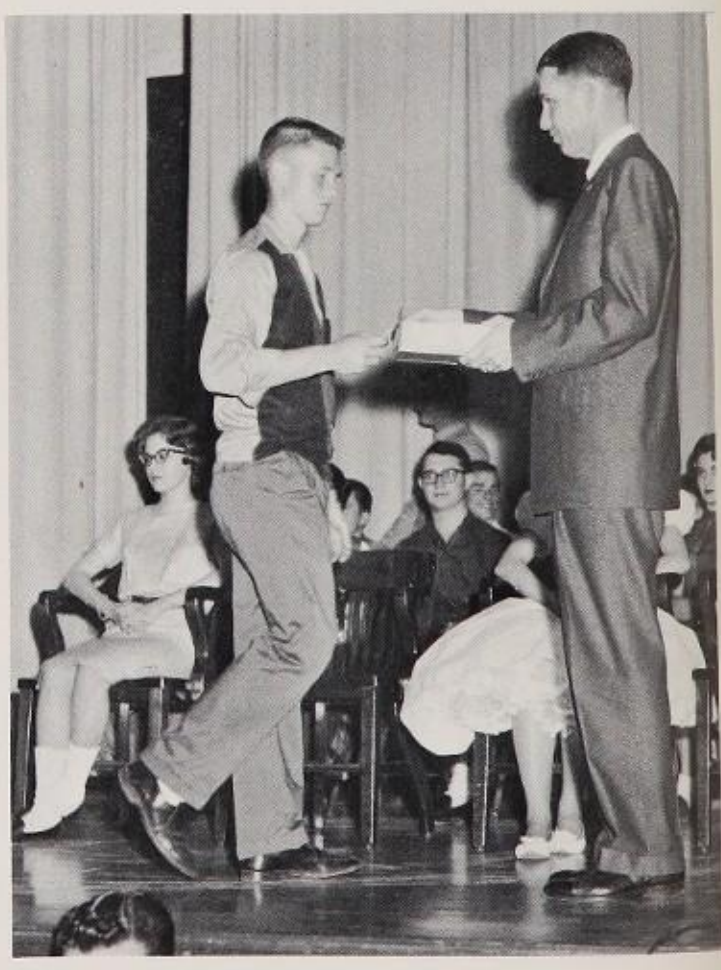
Service . . .

To achieve membership in the "J" Club, a Heightster must excell in service, scholarship and leadership.

Points are given in each area to every student who qualifies for membership with required grades in both citizenship and scholastic subjects. Individual points are added with membership increasingly harder to attain, for the top 10% of the sophomores are chosen, 9% of the juniors, and only 8% of the seniors.

Miss Kathryn Haden, who has been the sponsor since she and Mr. Roy M. Stone organized the club in 1949, spends many hours each year doing such things as determining members, preparing the annual program and keeping a "J" Club scrapbook.

Scholarship . . .



Taking the first step toward a gold pin is sophomore George Austin, shown receiving his first-year pin.

Standing with the three-year "J" Club members are Miss Haden, sponsor, and Pat Gallagher, Fahrenkamp Memorial Award winner.

Pat Gallagher receives the Edmund E. Fahrenkamp Memorial Award, given each year to an outstanding senior boy. Mr. Larry Boone, representative of the class of '51, makes the presentation.

AY Post Largest On Continent

Frankie Claunts is seen at his weekly task of posting a new display in connection with AY.

Reviewing the AY scrapbook are officers of Heights' nationally-recognized post, Garry Maben, president; Mary Lou Ramey, treasurer; Mary Jane Ware, secretary; Muff Singer, vice-president.

Heights' Allied Youth received national recognition for being the largest group in the land when a person known as "Connie" wrote to Mrs. Walter Ferguson, syndicated columnist.

Established at Heights in 1936, AY presents the results of drinking to its members and leaves the final decision up to them.

Seven deserving members were sent to the AY Convention in Buck Hill Falls, Pennsylvania, where Garry Maben was elected international first vice-president. Talented students demonstrated their ability in an AY talent show in December.

"Beauties" again paraded across Heights' stage in the annual AY Beauty Contest at which Juliana (Jim) Johnson reigned. A picnic in the spring concluded the rewarding year for Heights' AY.

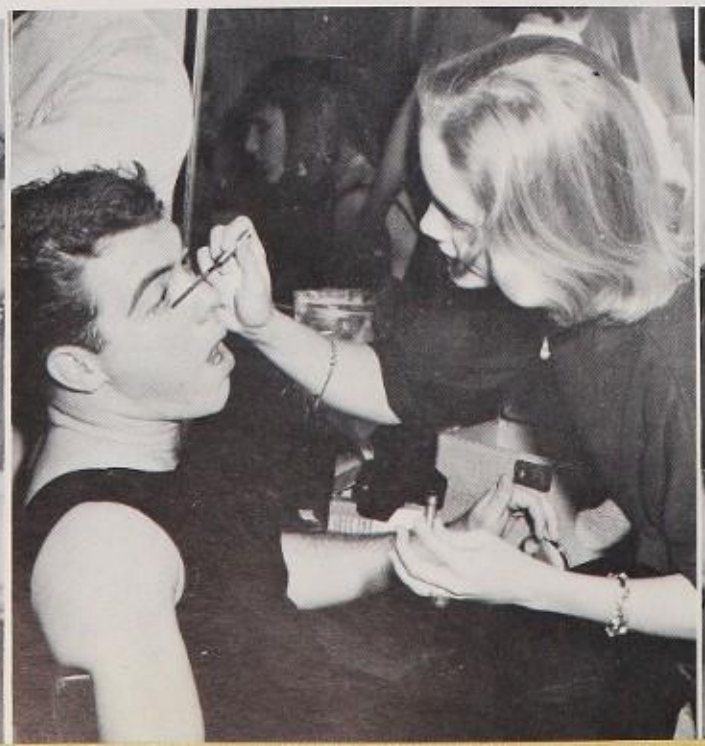
Sponsors for this year were Miss Grace Becker, Mr. James York and Mr. Jack Martin.

"Calypso Cuatro," Jeanice Hughes, Phyllis Meadlin, Sue Pittman and Jackie Fatherree, perform at the AY talent show.

"Doesn't this feel good?" quizzes Joanne Berglund as the transformation from Mike Robinson to "Michelle" Robinson begins.

"Oh, yes, I feel good all over!"

"Not on my eyeballs! I want them the color they are!"



"I don't think this is the kind she uses."

Beginning his first year as an AY sponsor is Mr. James York. With him are sponsors, Miss Grace Becker and Mr. Jack Martin.

"Mikerella."

She: "Do you think you can manage?"

He: "Yeah, I can walk, but I can't swing it!"

"Oh, it's nice to be beautiful."

OUR TOWN

On a near-empty stage with a minimum of simple props, Grover's Corners came to life in the AHHS auditorium. Under the direction of speech instructor, Mr. Charles Beseda, assisted by Betsy Heinecke, Thornton Wilder's Our Town was presented by the Jacket Footlight Players December 17 and 18.

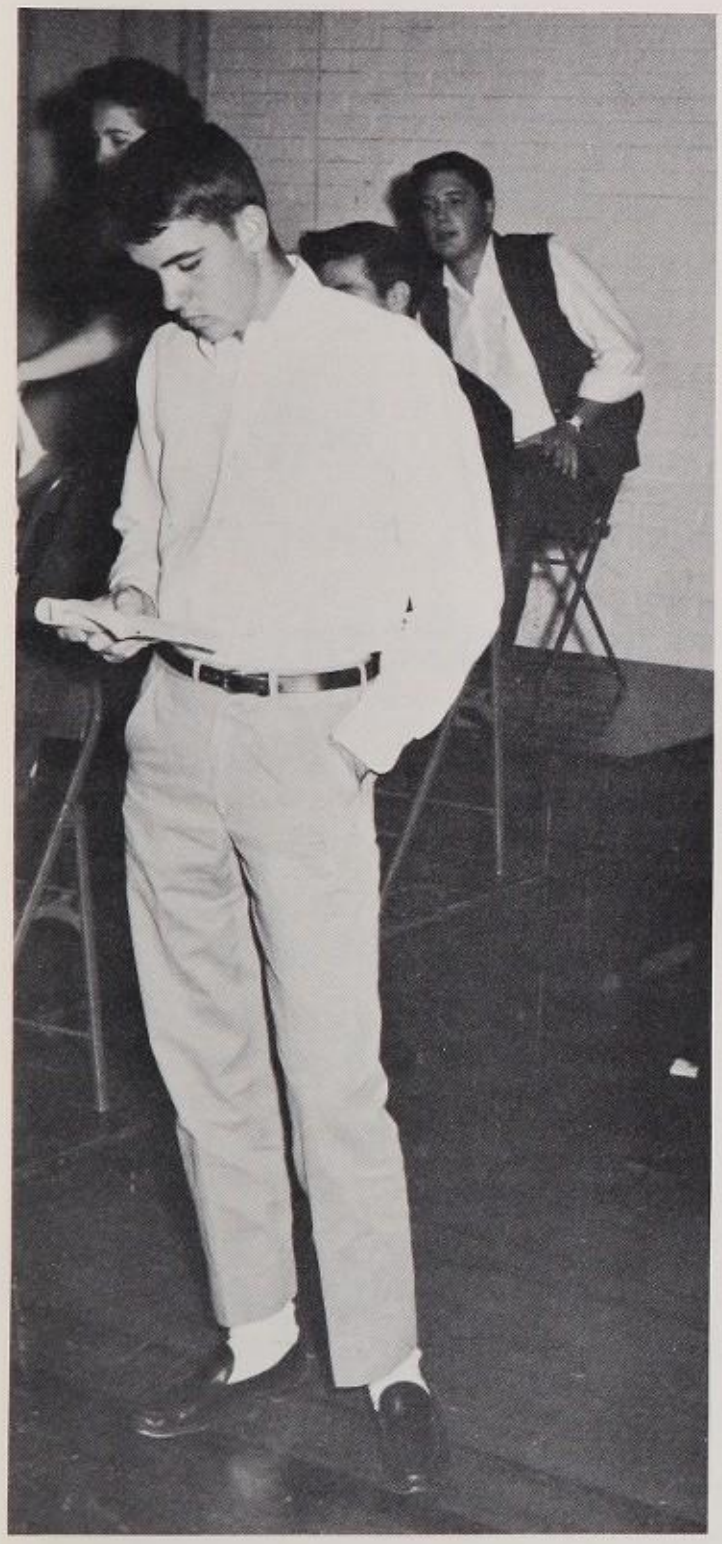
Footlighters began the year with their annual sunrise breakfast, at which the rains came down as usual. Steering the club through its activities were president, Jo Ann Hebert; vice president, Pat Gallagher; secretary-treasurer, Betsy Heinecke; and sergeant-at-arms, John Gaston. Climaxing the year was a final banquet, held in dry, indoor safety.

Jacket Footlight Players

Mike Stephens looks up from his "book" in response to Louanne Worley's invitation to "come outside and smell my heliotrope" in the Gibbses' invisible garden.

Mr. Charles Beseda and Assistant Director Betsy Heinecke attempt to silence the dead in order to continue the afternoon's rehearsal.

". . . an important talk we've been having." Emily and George, portrayed by Jo Ann Hebert and Tom Russell, discuss their future over "strawberry sodas" at Mr. Morgan's Drugstore.



Jim Gurley studies his third act lines as Stage Manager while a supposedly deceased Larry Suggs inquires about tomorrow's chemistry assignment.

Gossip in Grover's Corner—Sandra Blalock, Mona Lynn McDaniel and Louanne Worley "discuss" Simon Stimson while standing beneath Tom Russell's "window."

Tri-Lit Writing Club Flourishes In Second Year

Tri-Lit, as the name implies, has three goals for its members, appreciation of good writing, apprenticeship and authorship.

Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Leota Nation the club was organized last year. Members explore the depths of poetry and prose, then try their skill at creative writing. To climax the year, a booklet containing a sample of each participant's work will be given to members.

Officers for this year are Beverly Black, president; Diane Arnold, vice-president; Muff Singer, secretary-treasurer.

FNA Scrapbook Entered In State Contest

Artificial respiration is taught each FNA member. With the guidance of Mrs. Mary Fisher, sponsor, Susan Rogers, president, demonstrates her skill on Linda Zodin. Cheryl Reed, treasurer, and Dixie Weir, secretary, watch closely and await their turn.

Future Nurses of America, under the sponsorship of Mrs. Mary Fisher, offers an opportunity for medical-minded students to become acquainted with the duties of a nurse. Touring the City and County Health Departments and St. Joseph's Hospital helped familiarize members with the health facilities of the city.

A get-acquainted party opened the year for FNA members. On March 12 representatives attended the state convention at Austin, taking with them their entry in the state contest, a scrapbook, "Different Fields of Nursing."

FTA 1960 Busy Year For Future Teachers

Under the sponsorship of Miss Dona Stovall, assisted by Mrs. Elva Lerret and Mr. Ray Dyche, FTA members prepared for future careers. Outstanding guest speakers sought to instill a desire for teaching in students, and others gave them a glimpse of the modern world. During the spring semester members visited public schools in which they were "teachers for a day."

Thirteen representatives attended the TFTA Convention in Denton in February. The year was concluded at a joint spring installation with the Library Club.

Kay Ward is pointing the way to Denton and the TFTA convention. Other delegates were Gayle Piper, Kathy Propper, Mary Jane Ware, Pat Mullins, Wanda Trussell, Barbara Stone, Mary Lou McCreless and Judy Munday.

Library Club

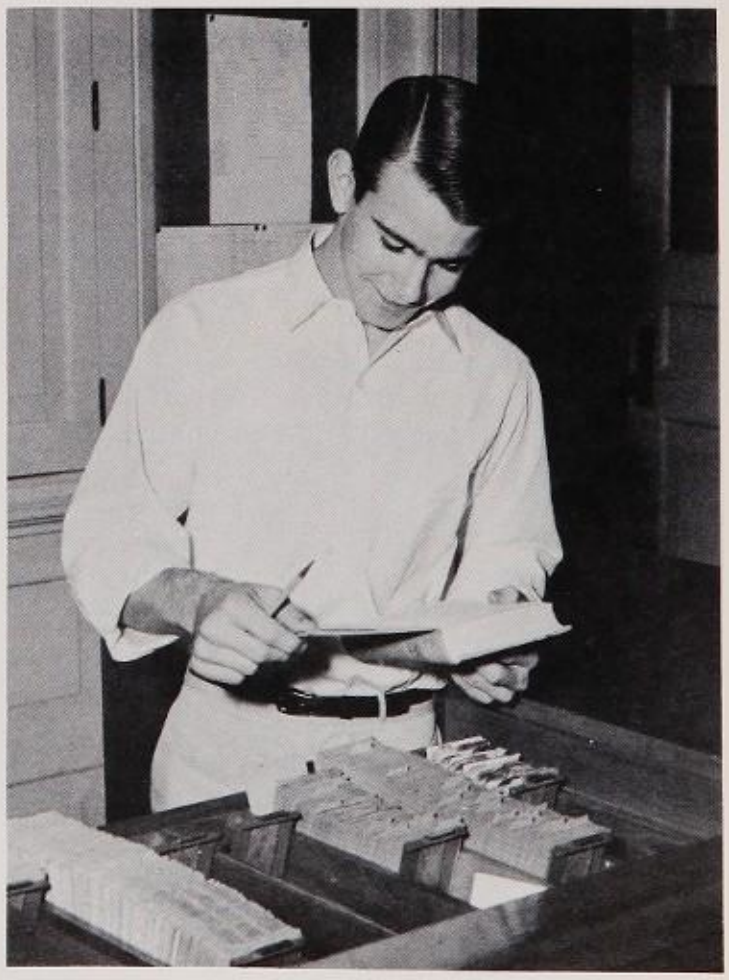
Members Keep Books

With date stamp in hand, Heights' assistant librarians prepare for their daily routine of checking out books to Heightsters, only one of their many duties. Working during their free periods, library helpers shelf and mend books and direct bewildered students to "hidden" books.

Meeting twice a month with sponsors, Mrs. Mary Hood and Mrs. Emily Bigham, the group discusses present and future plans to better the library.

A Christmas banquet was held with members of FTA. Climaxing the year was a dinner honoring Library Club seniors.

A "world of knowledge" surrounds officers Cynthia Gale, historian; Kay Sealy, vice-president; Martha Sealy, president; Sharon Thompson, treasurer; Mary Lou McCreless, secretary. Linda Yarbrough, reporter, is not pictured.



Jerry Landwehr helps in the Library every morning before school.

JRC Sponsors Variety Show

A chest filled with articles for underprivileged children and a variety show presented at the Carswell Air Force Base Hospital were the major projects of the Heights' branch of the Junior Red Cross.

Leaders of this year's Junior Red Cross, Kay Keller, Beverly Browning, Stanley Stone and Nancy Rogers.

The activities of the Junior Red Cross were planned by representatives from each homeroom. In most cases, the alternate councilman served as the homeroom's representative. Providing leadership and guidance were officers, Stanley Stone, president; Nancy Rogers, vice president; Kay Keller, secretary; Beverly Browning, treasurer, and sponsors, Mrs. Flossie Poston and Mr. Marvin Miller.

Tour Print Shop Press Club Members

Founded with the purpose of raising journalistic standards of school publications and promoting co-operation among Jacket Journal, Yellow Jacket, and Jaberwocky staffs, the Arlington Heights Press Club began its second year with approximately 45 members.

To attain this goal, morning meetings were held on alternating Thursdays, at which guest speakers, films, or programs by staff members were presented.

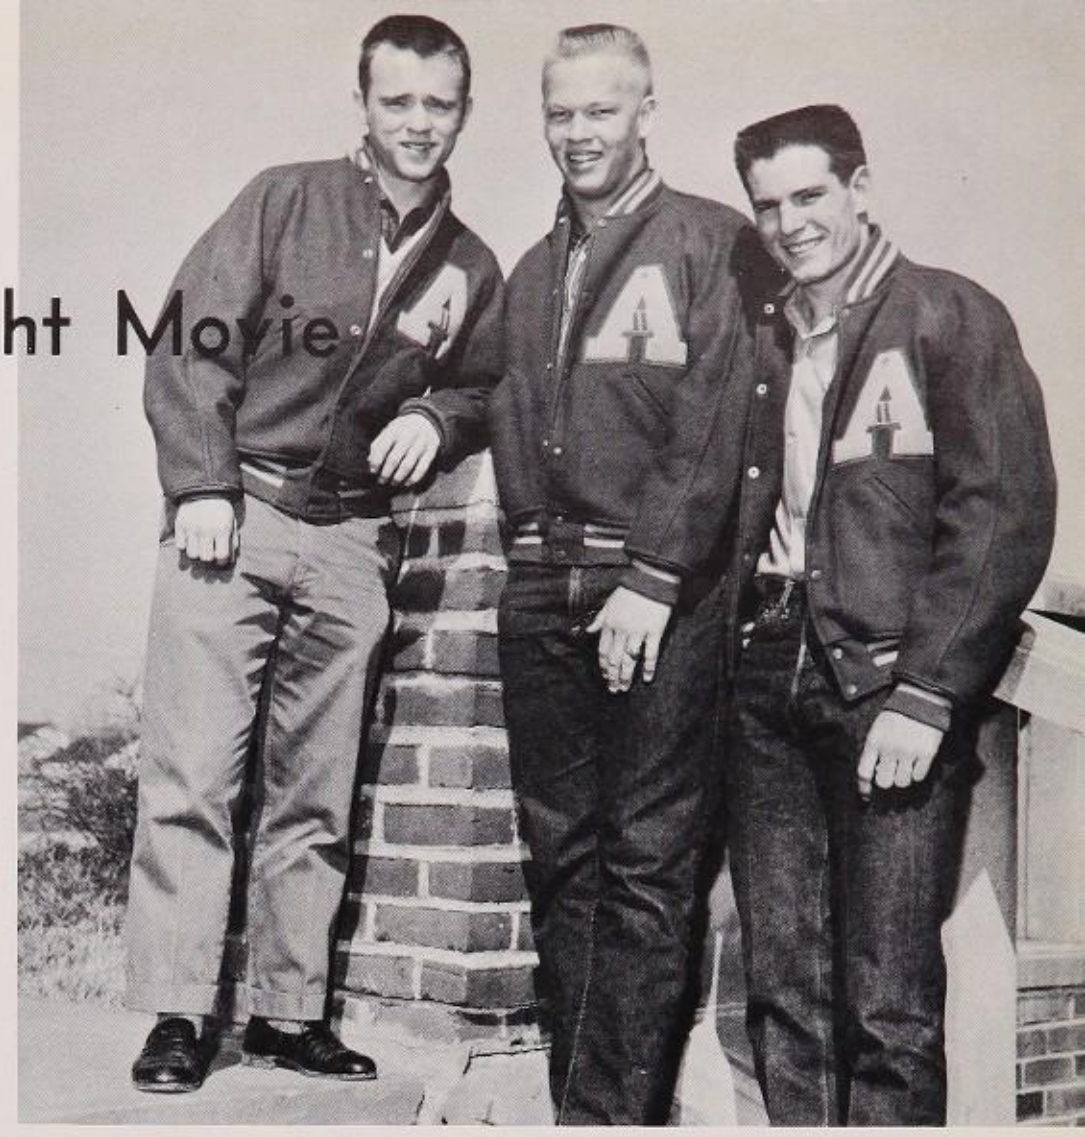
Night meetings, held once per six weeks, included a Christmas ice-skating party which developed into a surprise birthday celebration for sponsor, Mrs. Emily Lunday, and a tour of a print shop. An annual banquet concluded the year for student journalists.

Scanning school publications are Press Club officers, Jackie Woolsey, historian; Mona Lynn McDaniel, secretary; Kay Padgett, treasurer; Muff Singer, vice-president and Jim Huber, president.

'A' Club Revived

Lettermen Stage Midnight Movie

Dropped approximately four years ago, the "A" Club has been revived to benefit athletes. With a Midnight Movie and a late spring talent program, the boys attracted student interest. The club's prime purpose is to improve the athletic world at Heights and to provide pleasant associations among lettermen.



Officers of the reorganized "A" Club are Len Brantley, Bob Simpson and Joe White.

DE Students Pursue Business Careers While Getting Education

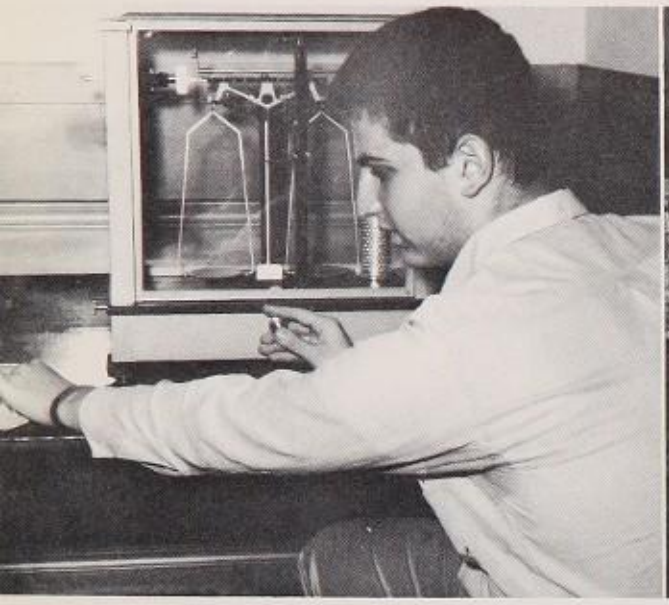
Behind the jewelry counter are Judi Bagwell, Carolyn Andrews and De Jo Thomson, who report to work each afternoon to gain experience while attending school.

Distributive Education, under the sponsorship of Mrs. June Lay, gives students an opportunity to work in the business world while gaining a scholastic education. After attending three classes, one of which is DE, each student goes to work.

Judy Bagwell was elected Heights' DE Sweetheart and was honored with other Fort Worth Sweethearts at a dance.

As a money-making project, DE students sold Christmas cards and candy. At the DE Convention in San Antonio two Heightsters received gold medals. Sue Riley won for sales demonstration and Patty McBride for business speaking.

Club Provides Guidance for Science Enthusiasts



Lee Eppstin analyzes the lab's analytical balance.

"Dissecting is fun!" crows Bill Richerson, as an unknown observer's curiosity endangers her nose.

Lynda Lightbown grins maliciously as she prepares to operate on a defenseless would-be chicken.

Now in its tenth year, the Science Club offers to students interested in science equipment to use in their research projects, the guidance of advisors and an opportunity to associate with other science enthusiasts.

Members meet weekly with sponsors, Mr. Flavin Arseneau, Mr. Arch Van Meter and Mr. Bob Phillips, to work on their projects for the Science Fair held in March.

An installation banquet featuring the presentation of club pins, a Christmas party and an annual-signing session enlivened the year for Heights' hard-working scientists.

Science Club officers, Bob Dickey, vice president; Bill Richerson, president; Larry Manire, reporter, and Susan Clough, secretary-treasurer, display some of the research equipment available to club members.

Clyde Spain seems to have blown out the flame of Bill's bunsen burner. Lynda Lightbown and Bill Pelton are standing around trying to look busy.

The secret is out—Heights' students really are teasippers! Jimmy Joiner and John Lowe enjoy their spot of tea in the biology lab storeroom.

ROTC Program Trains Boys For Future Army Leadership

Heights' ROTC unit this year included some 180 boys (and the usual girl sponsors to build morale). Under the ROTC program, designed to train young men now for future Army leadership, these boys were instructed in military drill, weapons, organization, first aid and marksmanship by commandants, M/Sgt. Leon McDuffie and M/Sgt. Eugene Brown.

An all-time high team score record was set by the rifle team, under the guidance of M/Sgt. McDuffie. The drill team performed at Open House in November and represented the school in drill competition with teams from other schools.

The entire unit participated in the annual Federal Inspection held in March, at which Heights has consistently won the Honor Star.

M/Sgt. Leon McDuffie, Mrs. Anne Ayala and M/Sgt. Eugene Brown smile proudly over Heights' All-City Colonel, Joe Frank Becera.

JACKET JOURNAL

JJ staffers Tim Beard, Jules Soule, Jane Pinholster, Jeanice Hughes, Sue Pittman, Janie Nelson and Kaye Patrick check page proofs before returning them to the printer.

Jacket Journal subscribers got more for their money this year than ever before. For the first time in Heights' history every issue of the paper contained six pages, with special larger Christmas, Homecoming and senior issues.

Although hard work is a familiar phrase to the paper staff, fun runs a close second (if trying to eat steak with a plastic fork like Jules Soule did can be termed fun). Losing an entire page the day before the paper goes to press may arouse laughter now, though it provoked no mirth in Mrs. Emily Lunday or her students at the time.

With never a dull moment, the Jacket Journal staff unfailingly produced a paper every two weeks, though occasionally without a moment, dull or otherwise, to spare.

Editors Jim Huber and Emily Dorsey read with a critical eye the Homecoming issue of the Jacket Journal.

Everyone is happy when Darlene White sells an ad. Staffers are Bill Adams, Muff Singer, Darlene White, Lillian Joe and Anita Sands.

Steak for all, and it's being eaten with plastic forks! Darlene White, Jim Huber, Jules Soule, Kaye Patrick, Emily Dorsey and Mrs. Lunday enjoy a "snack" after working overtime.

Mrs. Lunday, publications sponsor, pauses from her teaching to offer some advice to her press room pencil pushers.

YJ Graduates To College Size

Exuberance filled the air in Mrs. Caveness's room as each student received his personalized annual for being the lucky 100 per cent homeroom. Annual staffers had their names put on their annuals in black to match this year's color scheme.

This year brought forth three firsts, the senior class color pictures, college-sized annual and a special period for annual staffers, eliminating much after school work and facilitating security measures. No longer was it necessary to shoo other Jackets out of the hive. Unity and better planning were results of the class period.

Editors: "But there are other sections!" exclaims Mary Jane Ware as Joel Locke studies the "makeup" of college beauties.

Checking YJ copy are Kay Padgett, Lynne Raschke and Sharon Thompson.

"No, Doug, not Mad style for the YJ!" Walter Martin, Jill Lobdill, Doug Brooks.

It's here! Working vigorously to meet the deadline are Evalie Hawes, Virginia Watson and Suzanne McAdams.

Jabberwocky

Offering an opportunity for students to express their originality, the Jabberwocky, which was hatched a year ago by editor Sam Hudson, was published twice this year.

The bright gold cover of the Christmas Portfolio edition was printed especially for mailing. The contents of this package, poems, short stories and features, expressed students' ideas and feelings of the holiday season.

Again Jackets contributed to the second spring issue. The Class of 1960 entrusts to Heightsters the Jabberwocky, Sam Hudson's dream, a magazine reflecting the spirit of the "school on the Hill."

Dream Comes True

Editors: Kaye Patrick has all faith that Sam Hudson will stab the card and not her finger. Darlene White seems unaware of the "sticky" situation.

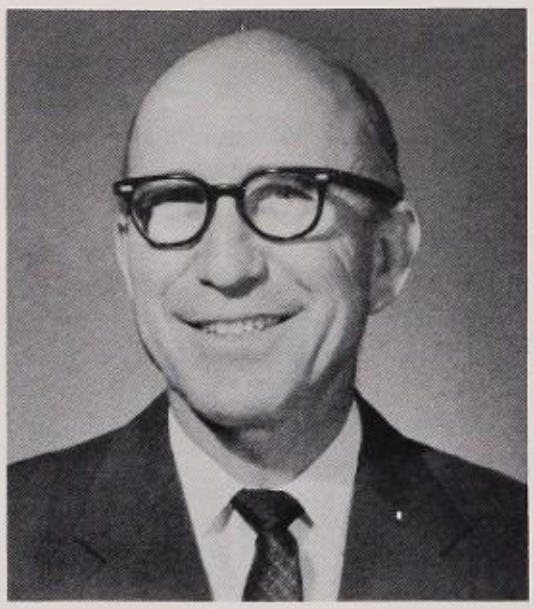
Music On Parade

Baritone Gary Huddleston sings "List! The Cherubic Host" with AHHS choral background at the Christmas program.

AHHS Lab Band plays one of its many "swing" numbers.



Reaching new heights this year was our Jacket Band, under the able direction of Mr. G. H. Carson, director.

Busy! Busy! Busy!
Mrs. Mary White is vocal director of mixed chorus, girls' sextet and the newly formed boys' ensemble.

Band members tank up before marching another seven plays without water.

Chorus Adds Spirit, Represents School

Heights' Orchestra made its initial appearance this year at the installation of the student body officers. The Orchestra's String Ensemble performed for the Association of Educational Secretaries' tea in December. Open House and the annual Christmas Program were also on the orchestra's agenda. They played at several contests and made a high fidelity recording. In April they appeared with the All-City Orchestra and Chorus and climaxed the year with the Arlington Heights Music Festival.

"Do . . re . . mi . . fa . . so . . la . . ti(?) . . do . . but, Mrs. White, the tenors couldn't be flat!"

Thus the AHHS Chorus is heard at work, under the direction of Mrs. Mary Smith White. One hundred twelve strong, the chorus performed before the student body on the annual Christmas program and the spring program. Graduation and Baccalaureate services also featured music sung by the group. In addition to singing for other schools, many chorus members took part in the yearly expedition to TWC's Choral Festival and participated in the All-City Chorus and Orchestra Concert. Heights' choral group was accompanied by Gary Huddleston and Janet Jones, Janet doubling as accompanist for the Girls' Double Sextet and the newly organized Boys' Double Quartet.

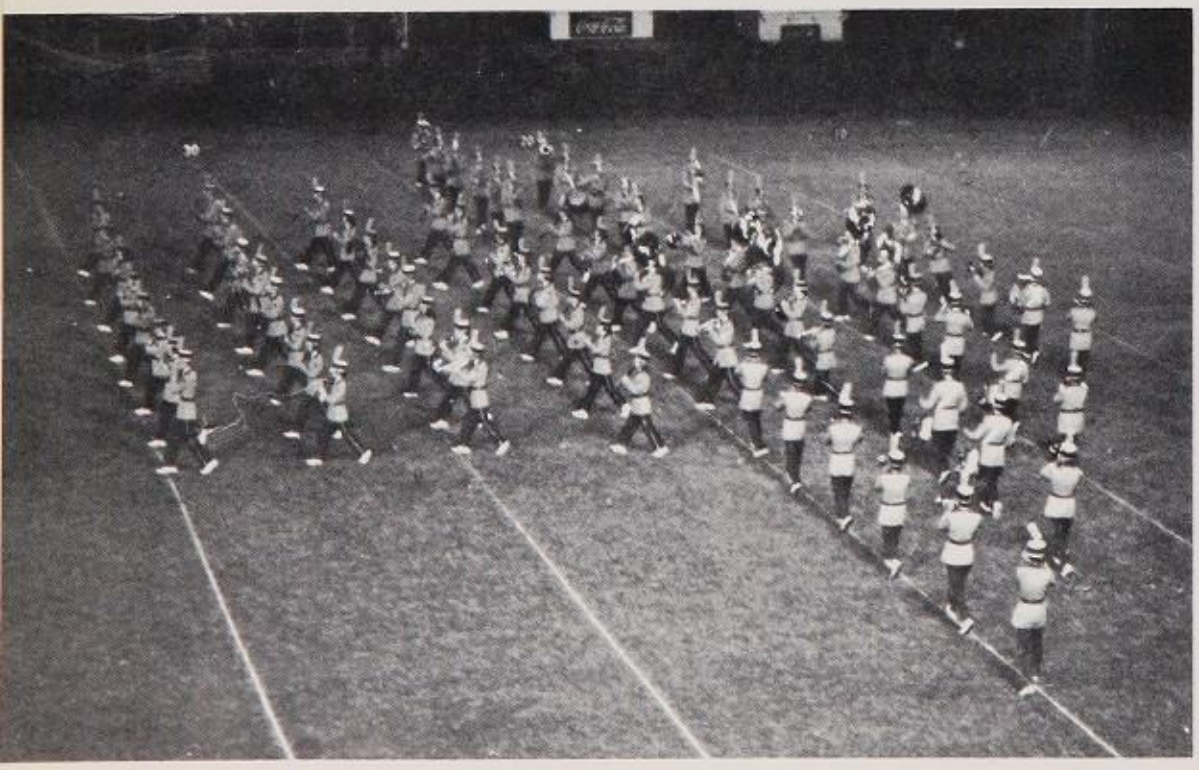
Band Activities 1959-60



Practice makes perfect, and the Jacket Band has obviously been practicing, a factor which showed up in Interscholastic League competition.

The year actually started for Heights' Yellow Jacket Band three weeks before the opening of school with the first briefing of band officers and the announcements of pre-season marching for all members. Following a week of intensive training and drill for the marching officers, the full band drilled and rehearsed four hours daily for the final week.

Ever present at all pep rallies, the band performed at nine football games and at the installation of the All-City Cadet Colonel. WBAP-TV also featured the band in marching and concert playing on their All-City Pep Rally.

Heights' medal-winning twirlers are Phyllis Meadlin, Sue Pittman, Gladys Perry and Jackie Fatherree.

Fourth Row: J. Johnson, J. Boatwright, R. Bennett, J. Le Gwin, D. Latimer, J. Yeager, C. Hart, E. Gibson, D. Poling, S. Easley, L. Champion, B. Graves, M. Brown, L. Worley, D. Spencer, C. Ellet, J. Gaston.

Not Pictured: N. Bedford, D. Snipes.

Contests for the Jacket Band included the preliminary marching festival at Arlington, a first place performance in Interscholastic League marching competition at TCU and the annual Jacksboro Music Festival, along with other contests.

Performances included the Armistice Day Parade, Stock Show Parade and Rodeo Concert and a concert for Monnig Junior High.

A high fidelity recording, along with the annual Band Concert and Arlington Heights Music Festival attended by the junior and senior highs concluded the year for the band.

"I'm sorry, but I can't accept your resignation," says Mr. Sharp to Lilla Keyes as Doris Gresset and Buddy Paden look on.

Registration

As juniors and seniors groaned and pleaded for classes, smug sophomores looked on, since theirs were picked for them. Registration marked the farewell to sunbaths, skiing, parties and picnics. However, it introduced new friends, leaf collections and term themes. Since the enrollment of Heights was the largest ever, many new teachers greeted old and new students.

Longview Trip

Fifteen buses filled with noisy, active and excited students streamed to their destination accompanied by police escorts, flying crepe paper and several harried teachers. Joe Longley agreed readily to carry snacks for Mrs. Wells' bus. A barbecue supper, served in Terrell to those lucky 540 who had purchased meal tickets, highlighted the excursion. The only upset of the whole trip was the game.

"Hi-ho, hi-ho, it's off to Longview we go," sing Cynthia Johnson and the ten dwarfs.

"Oh, I bet you say that to all the girls!" remarks Sylvia Wehmanen to Wayne Meadlin.

Open House

Open House is an event looked forward to each year by students, teachers and parents alike. It gives the parent an opportunity to closely examine every phase of the school curriculum, to meet new teachers and greet old friends. It is an excellent opportunity for linking school and home.

Beginning at 7:30 in the evening, the students, with their parents, go by bell to to all of their classes. Chemistry students, Craig Rabb and Jan Stuart, demonstrate experiments in the lab. This event is sponsored by the PTA.

Homecoming

Friday 13 means superstitions, witch craft and strange phenomenons to most people, but to Heightsters it meant Homecoming. Ex-students visited classes and relived moments from the past. At 2:00 the pep rally began with Jack Jackson as emcee. Captain Bob Simpson led the team to the pep rally as sophomores lined the halls. That evening the Jackets tangled with the Panthers. During half-time, Homecoming Queen Gunilla Hutton-Miller was officially presented. After the game, students and exes returned to the school for the Homecoming Party.

Ranch Day

Ranch Day at Arlington Heights was ushered in with a cloud of dust, a clash of hooves and a hi-ho Silver! Girls in ranch duds, boys in cowboy attire donned the hill from sunrise to sunset. A king, Dick Greenman, and a queen, Janie Green, were elected by students to reign throughout the day.

Season's Record

In the season's opener, the Yellow Jackets faced the more experienced Tascosa Rebels in an exciting skirmish. The Amarillo team proved too tough, though, and won 21-6.

Heights was unable to defeat the Pampa Harvesters this year as it did last year, the main reason being 14 Yellow Jacket fumbles. They meant victory for Pampa, 12-0.

Playing Longview, the number eight team in the state, Arlington Heights again found the roads blocked and lost 22-6. The lone tally came when Homer Price romped 41 yards in an outstanding touchdown play.

A Highland Park interception was bad enough, but they added insult to injury by going the length of the field for a touchdown. That, together with a disastrous clipping penalty against the Jackets, helped the Scotties to a 27-6 win.

Arlington Heights decided they had had more than their share of losses and mauled Birdville to the tune of 6-0. It was a one-sided affair all the way, since Birdville never got inside their ten yard line throughout the game.

In the first district game, the favored Yellow Jackets weren't able to corral the North Side Steers, but it was only an extra point that made the difference in the 16-14 game.

The Heights-Poly battle ended in a split decision 0-0. The Parrots got a 15-yard penalty from the one yard line and the Jackets were refused entrance into the end zone twice during the game.

Once again the home team was fed up with defeat and decided to tromp Technical, which they did in a smooth 40-6 victory, while enduring some of the coldest weather they had been in all year. A last quarter run provided the Bulldog's only score.

A penalty and a fumble in the third quarter prevented Heights from winning this year's homecoming game with Paschal. The Yellow Jackets managed to pound the Panthers for two T.D.'s, though. The final score was 14-12.

The final game of the season found Carter running to a 28-6 win over AHHS.

The Yellow Jackets put together a total of 96 points against their opponents this season to finish with a 2-7-1 record.

Although hopes for the district title were destroyed by two games lost to Poly, Arlington Heights finished a close and commendable second.

In the second round AHHS defeated Carter, Paschal and Tech by scores of 47-35, 42-21 and 66-45.

Poly managed to scoot by Heights with the wide margin of 1 point. Heights lost 50-49.

Tech and Northside were easy wins by scores of 76-29 and 56-22. Price and Stone totaled 58 points for the two games.

Poly gave Heights its one and only loss in first round play, 53-51. Stone scored 26 points.

Carter was the second of Heights' district victims by a score of 41-34.

Everyone had picked Paschal to win the first district game, but Price plunked in 26 points and the Yellow Jackets won 50-43.

Sports Snaps

Ronnie Luskie dashes out of the blocks to start the mile-relay in the Rec Meet.

"How do you like my baseball suit?" shouts Bob McGuffee to his teammates. Standing are Bob McGuffee, Tom Magoffin, Bill Lawley, Dwain Heath, and Mike O'Rourke. Kneeling are Craig Metz and Bobby Bragan.

"Is that dirt in your eyes?" Billy Snow asks Gaines Stovall. Watching for bad form are Bobby Preissinger, Jack Sears and Jim Johnson.

"Just let me beat an Abilene boy," thinks Garry Maben as he finishes his quarter of the mile-relay at the Rec Meet.

The '59-'60 cheerleaders, supervised by their new sponsor, Miss Helen Hale, led the Yellow Jackets to an all-time high in spirit. Practice, begun during the summer and continued through the school year, was obvious at game performances. New white uniforms were accented by white mums presented to the girls before each football game. Garry Maben served as head cheerleader.

In three years at Heights, Mary Jane Ware, a member of Who's Who, has set an admirable record. As well as being a consistent member of the "A" honor roll, she served as president and vice-president of FTA, secretary of Student Body, co-editor of the YJ, JJ staffer and was a 2-year delegate to Buck Hill Falls.

Along with being a two-year letterman of the "A" Football team on which he played center, he has also set many records broad-jumping on the track team on which he is a 3-year letterman. As a junior he received honorable mention on the all-district team as an outstanding line-backer on defense.

Joy Kelsey, a member of the city volley ball team, was a two-year member of GIC. Joy, who excels in all sports, is a member of the "advanced" PE Class, coaches a class of sophomores and writes sport stories for the JJ.

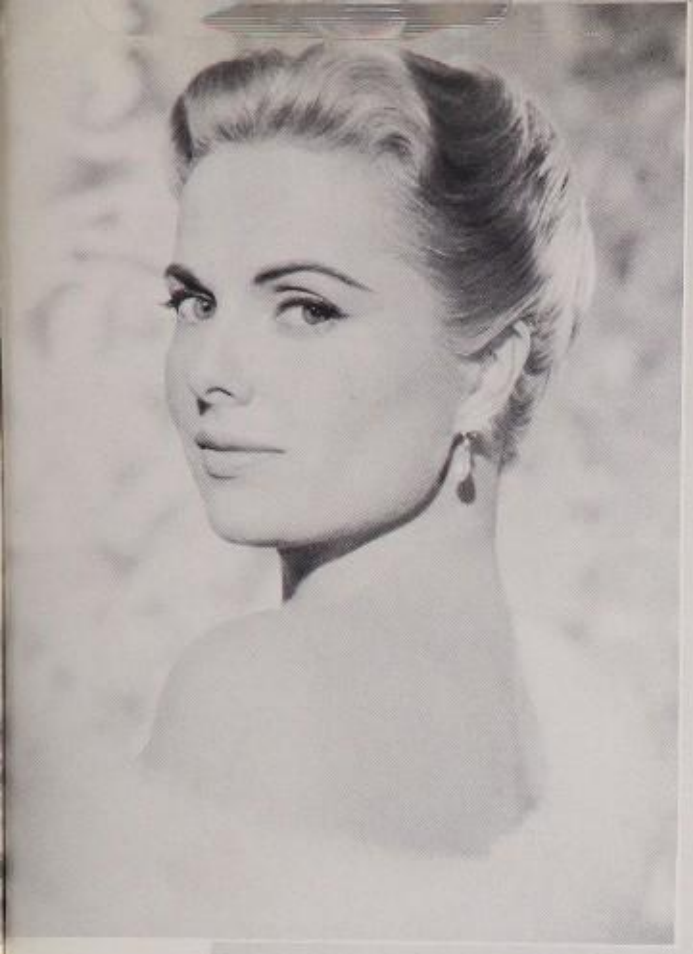
Mark — You're a swell guy and I think the world of you. I'll never forget our little "Study Hall" talks and all the wonderful things you've done for me. We've had some real grins and I'd give anything if you were graduating with the rest of the gang. You deserve only the best in life because you are such a [illegible] person. Stay swell, doll! Joy

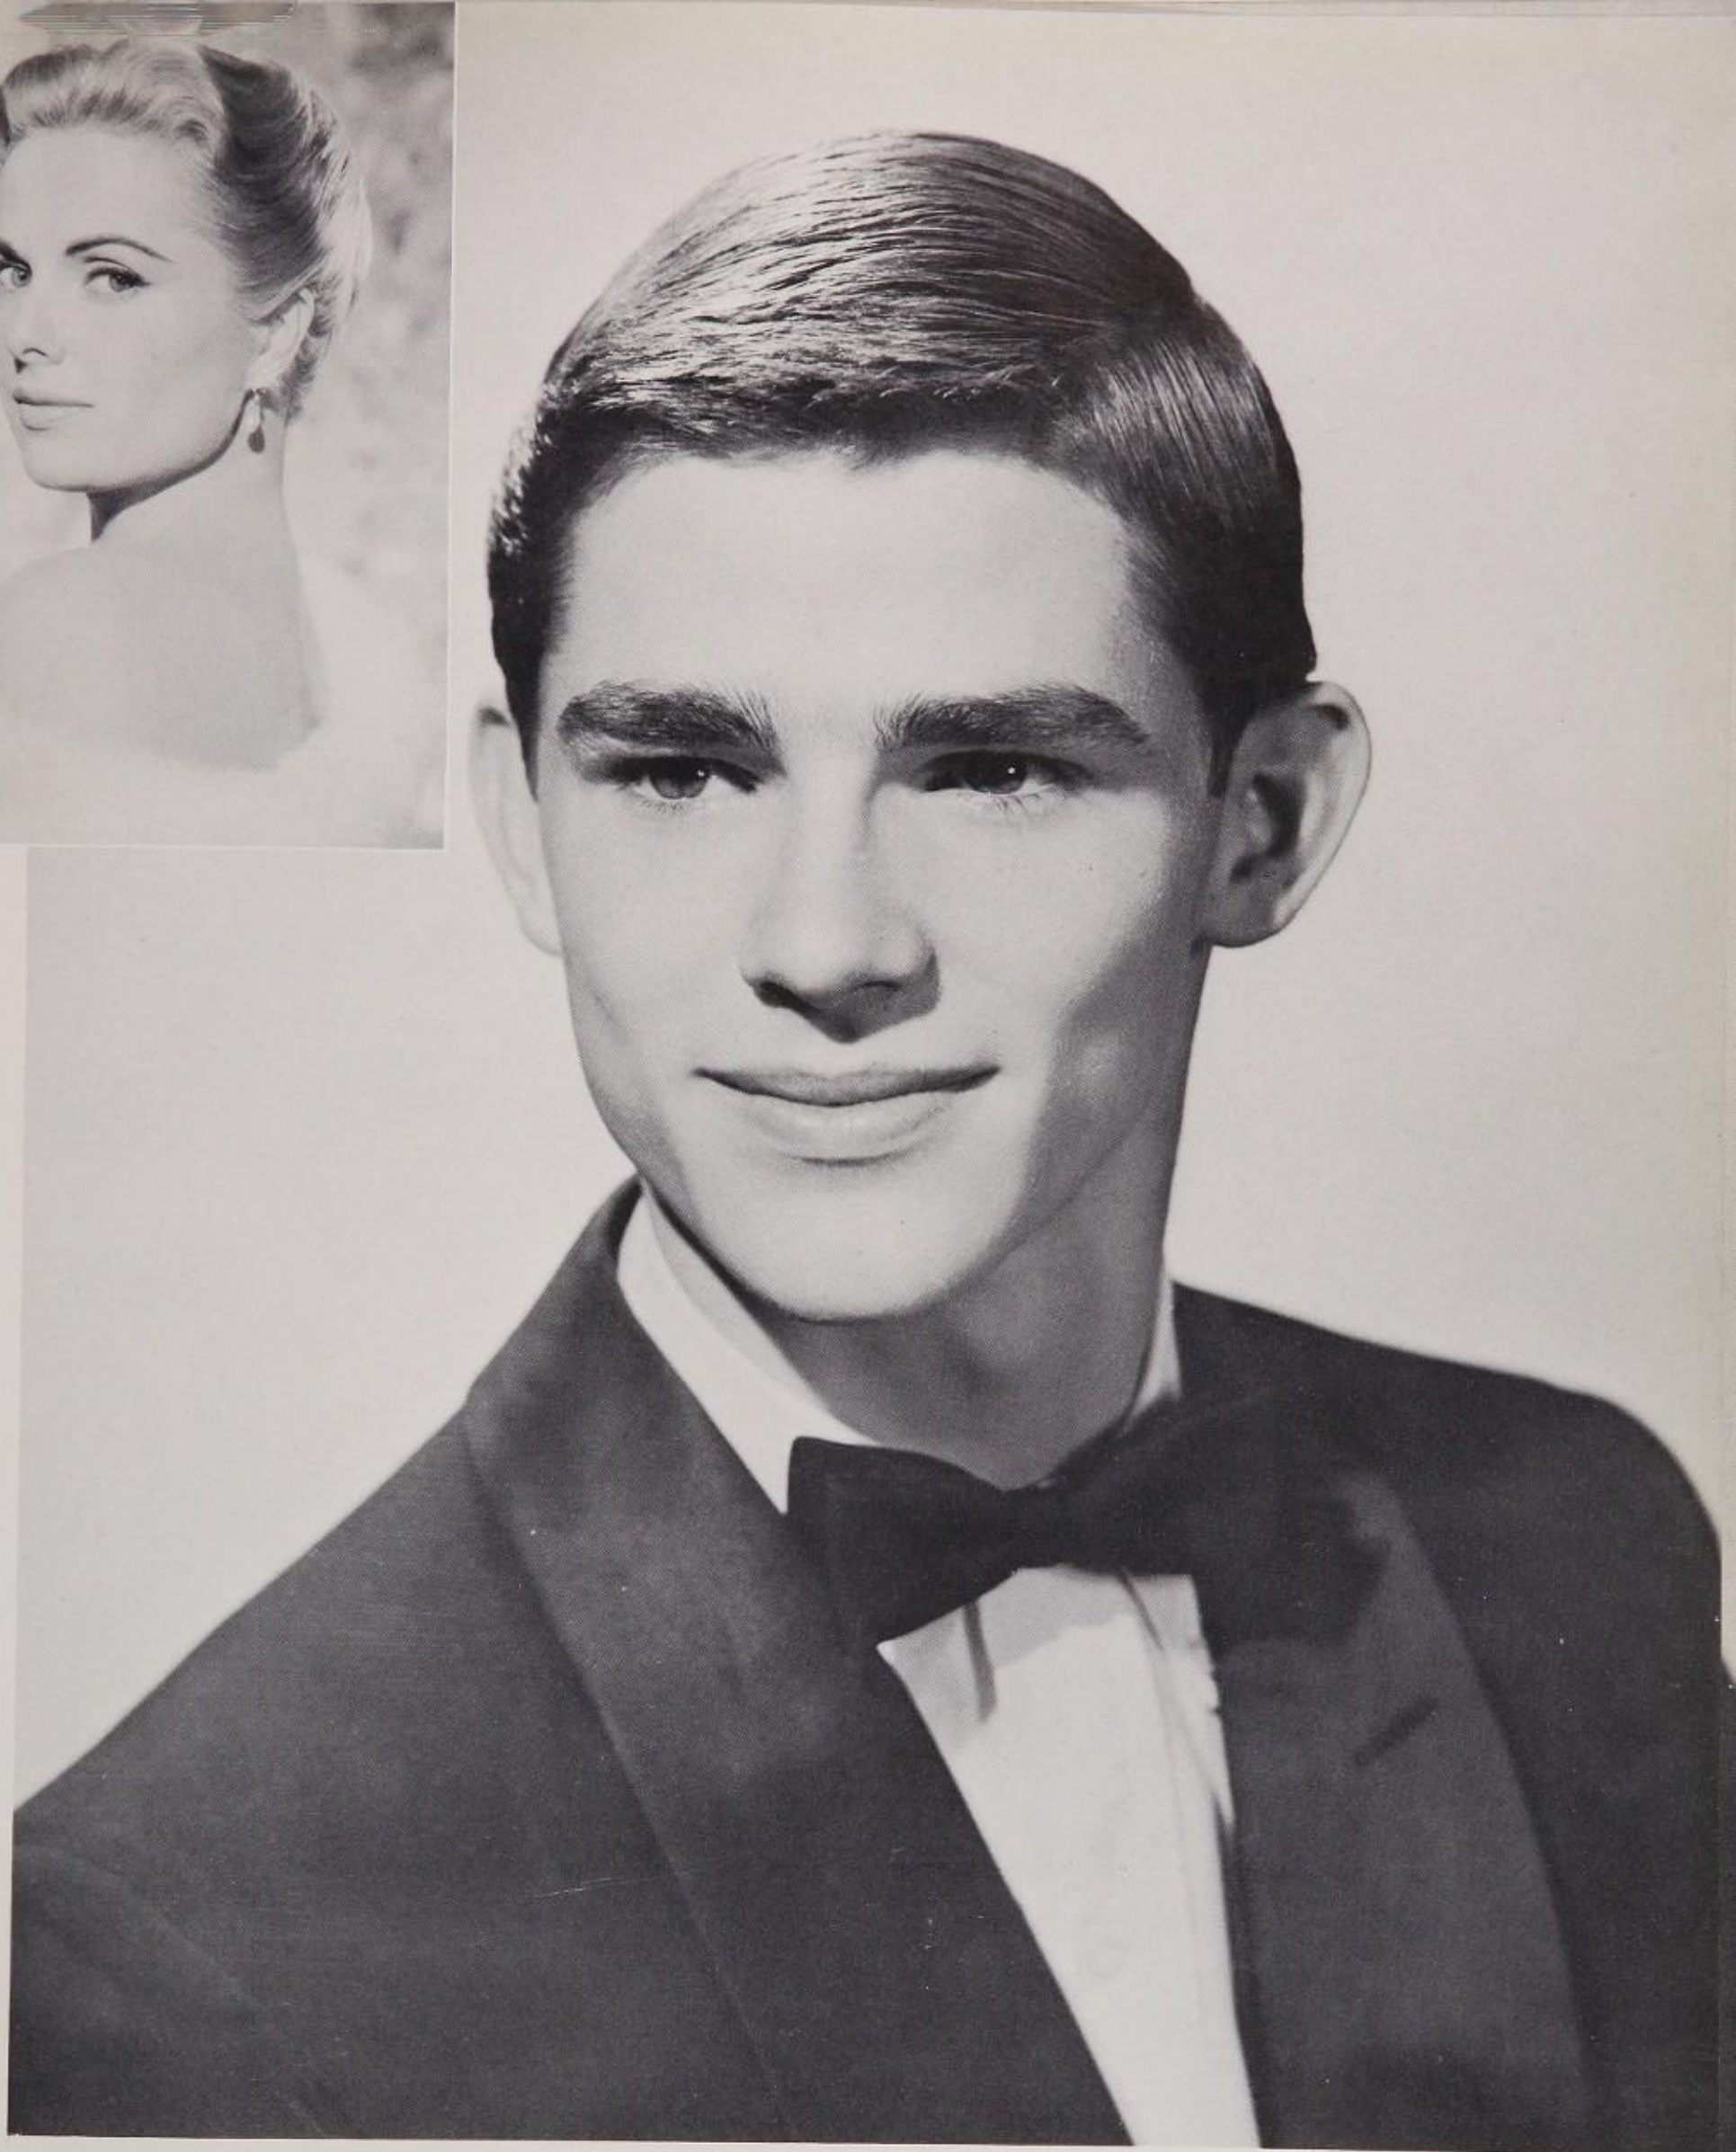
Bob Hope, while flying in a helicopter on his way to a show on the Southern Methodist University campus, scrutinized the pictures of Heights' top three beauties and picked Bonnie Rodgers. "You can't beat those pale blue eyes," he said.

Runner-up beauties, Barbara Burt and Gunilla Hutton-Miller, made his choice "a hard one."

Most Beautiful

Hope Chooses In Helicopte





Pictures of Heights' Most Handsome candidates made a round-trip flight to Berlin, West Germany, to be judged by cinema star Martha Hyer on location before for a picture.

Miss Hyer noted that all three boys, Jay Hale, Garry Maben and Craig Metz, were "each so handsome in his own way," that she "expected to see them in Hollywood!" Her choice was Garry Maben.

Water flows and wheels turn. A year passes as simply as that, and in retrospect there is a ring of completed memories. We hope that we have recorded memories which will evoke pleasant reminiscing.

To thos aiding us in our ring of memories we give credit and appreciation. We would like to thank Bob Maulsby, Ralph Cordray and Cedric Snyder for their marvelous photography.

Mrs. Emily Lunday should have special recognition for her guidance and patience.

The editors wish to thank Lynne Raschke and Kay Padgett, faculty editors; Nell Touchstone and Diana Poling, senior class editors; Sharon Thompson, junior class editor; Roxie Calinson and Bea Perry, sophomore class editors.

The editors wish also to thank Suzanne McAdams and Virginia Watson, organizations editors; Walter Martin and Douglas Brooks, sports editors; Mona Lynn McDaniel and Jackie Woolsey, snapshot editors; Jill Lobdill and Bill Adams, art editors; Evalie Hawes, personality editor; Celia Scott and Jane Lemon, circulation managers.

The circle is complete. The ring closes around our memory.

Marcus,

Ever since you sat across the table from Charles and I at the D.O.2. street dance I had felt you were something dearer to me than just another friend. You are so nice and I hold great respect for you - I hope the feeling is mutual. I would also like to know you better so when school is out please don't forget my "after-lunch talks" - I would like to see you often - You're a real great guy and I love you to death!

Don't forget me -

Hanna Elliott "Doolittle"

Mark — It's been much fun running with you this year. Your better stays with Lots of luck she's great. Charles Ray
